DEFENDING CASSIDY
STYLE OF START

Westerners Call His Walk-Up System Best.

TAKES WHACK AT STEWARDS

Detroit Man Not Awed by Their Owl-Like Wisdom—Where Blame Belongs.

Western friends of Starter Mars Cassidy are coming to his defense as a result of the abuse which has been heaped upon him because of his walk-up system and the heavy penalties he has inflicted upon jockeys who would not obey orders at the post.

Incidentally, the Westerners are not at all awed or impressed by the air of sacred wisdom in which the stewards of the metropolitan tracks are so fond of wrapping themselves. The scribes of the wild and woolly even go so far as to declare openly that it is perfectly possible for the stewards to make mistakes. Such temerity is almost inconceivable, but it exists. One racing expert takes up the cudgels for Cassidy in the Detroit News as follows:

Popular in North.

"Detroit is considerably interested in the starting bugaboo which is worrying racegoers in the metropolitan circuit. Holtzman and Dwyer had followed Caldwell on the local tracks and their work was eminently satisfactory. Down at Benning and other minor courses in the East they had a starter named Mars Cassidy, and finally the Highland Park Club employed him to do the work here. From the day he first yelled 'Go' in the Northern circuit, his fame spread, until at the end of a season he was rated among the best.

Cassidy introduced the walk-up start, and it worked like a charm. Lining the horses up some yards back of the barrier he commanded the boys to walk them to the barrier and as they reached it he released the rubber and gave the signal. Up and off, nearly always in good alignment, and seldom a case of a horse left at the post. It caught the popular fancy at once.

His Troubles Began.

"The fame of the new starter spread to the East, where he had previously worked without more than passing notice, and finally the Jockey Club sent for him to come back. Cassidy did not want to leave the northern circuit, and the many friends he had in Detroit, Buffalo and elsewhere, but there was the satisfaction of going back and the substantial money gain. The regular starter giving up the work, Cassidy passed from assistant to chief, and then his troubles began. All this year he has been making him unpopular, when the blame for poor work should have been put upon those responsible.

Vetoed Walk-Up.

"The first appearance of Cassidy in the East two years ago was at the Aqueduct track, and he showed them the walk-up start. Papers printed long articles in commendation of it, and said it was the best starting seen there in recent years.

"But something came over the stewards of the Jockey Club, the small bottle coterie who control metropolitan racing. They decided against the Cassidy method in favor of a hybrid system, and said that he must walk the horses up to the barrier, have them stop for a while, then dispatch them. This brief pause was enough for boys and horses to indulge in all sorts of antics, and the starts have been bad in consequence. Cassidy, though as good as they would have been with any other man in the position.

Stewards to Blame.

"Cassidy has been the subject of much adverse comment during the year, and papers have been almost brutal in their denunciation of his work. Few words have been said about the stewards who are to blame, but now that the season is about over, the sentiment is changing and the stewards are coming in for their share. One writer roasts them soundly for their interference and points out that England had the same trouble until the racegoing public rose up and demanded that horses be started from a walk. Cassidy is to start at Hot Springs and probably the Corriean track at New Orleans this winter, but whether he will work for the Jockey Club next season is not known among his Detroit intimates.

NOTHING WAS DOING IN SCRAPPING LINE

Peyton Failed to Appear and Trusty Ship Wasn't Chartered—Now for More Talk.

Something went wrong with Ristic Leonard and his cohorts last night in regard to that fight which was to have been held at Indian Head between Billy Peyton and Joe McWilliams.

Harry Haight and the other McWilliamsites, together with Peyton, were at the foot of Eighth street at 7 p.m., which was the advertised sailing time, and were willing to make the long trip, even if it was a dark and stormy night. Mighty confident were the McWilliamsites that they would land the money. At the wharf they found that the steamer upon which they were to sail had not been chartered, and after waiting for some time they returned home, hinting that the chilly air had given the Peyton backers cold feet.

This mix-up will revive all the talk about the merits of the respective dusky scrappers, and it is to be hoped they will soon and the controversy. The McWilliams contingent is shrieking shrilly about betting $500 on its man. Maybe the Peyton supporters will have a chance to make some easy money.

All doubts as to Joe Kelley's standing with the Cincinnati Club were set at rest yesterday when the official announcement was made that he had been re-signed by the Cincinnati Club, which means, of course, that he will manage the team for next year.

Personal Comment on Men and Things in the Field of Sports

FOOTBALL.

Cornell seems to have hit its right speed, and the men are in good shape.

Pennsylvania is pessimistic over the Harvard game.

Burroughs will be moved from fullback to guard on the Illinois team in McKelvey's place.

Bull is to take Captain Torrey, the Pennsylvania center, under his wing for special coaching.

Caruthers, the Illinois star, has his knee in a plaster cast and may not be able to play against Michigan.

Rafferty has been changed to the left side of the Princeton line, and Dillon will play right guard. Munn is kicking well for the Tigers.

There is a wonderful spirit at Wisconsin. The students will fight as long as the team fights, and hope for victory in the Minnesota and Michigan games.

Quite a few celebrities are on the Harvard hospital squad, including O'Brien, with a broken nose; Squires, Pierce, and Cumitt, with broken hands; Montgomery and Myers, with fractured cheek bones; Captain Hurler, with a strained thigh muscle, and Hall, with water on the knee.

The Princeton coaches are getting a bit nervous about the condition of the team, from the reports, as a radical change from the heavy work that has so far marked the season's training is to be made.

Coach Warner, of Cornell, says that any man who slugs will be dropped from the football squad without any ceremony.

President Elliot, of Harvard, writes pointedly about football in Success for November. His chief objection to the game is that it "engenders a vicious moral code in the end."

Much has been written of the Carlisle Indians' strength this fall, but there has been no real test for them. Carlisle has been weaker each season for some years, but Woodruff announces that this year's team compares favorably with the strong Carlisle teams of eight and nine years ago, when the veterans Moten, Bemis, and Hawley Pierce and others were playing. Carlisle has scored 212 points so far this year.

Shultz, whose field goal tied the Amherst game for Columbia, was so well coached in drop-kicking that just before the Columbia-Amherst game he succeeded in scoring 19 goals in 20 attempts. Al Sharpe, who in 1904 made a 47-yard drop-kick goal for Yale against Princeton, was Shultz's instructor.

Coach Stagg's forethought in bringing a supply of scrub-bushes along with his Chicago team to Madison, Wis., for the purpose of cleaning the players' shoes in case the field was muddy, bore fruit. The damp earth clogged the shoe cleats, and the brushes came in handy.

Cornell ran through three or four new players on Percy Field the other day, which Coach Warner says never have been tried on the gridiron before.

Rothgeb, the Nationals' outfielder, is coaching the Washington University football squad, of St. Louis.

BOXING.

The Jimmy Dunn vs. Young Ernie fight scheduled for the Nonpareil Athletic Club, of South Sharon, Pa., on October 29, may not come off. Ernie is now demanding catch weights, while he agreed to 150 pounds when the match was first made. The club will likely get another good man to meet Dunn in Ernie's place.

Maurice Sayers, the Milwaukee featherweight, and Andy Bezenah, of Cincinnati, have been hooked up to meet for fifteen rounds at catchweights on November 10, before the River View Athletic Club, of Cincinnati.

Mike Ward, the lightweight champion of Canada, who is matched to meet Jimmy Briggs, of Chelsea, at the Douglas Athletic Club, of Chelsea, on November 7, has also hooked up with Adam Ryan for a fifteen-round stunt at Grand Rapids, Mich., the latter part of November.

Joe Jeannette, negro middleweight of New York, and Jim Jeffords, of California, are to meet tonight before the Broadway Athletic Club, of Philadelphia. Jeannette has been coming fast of late, having outpointed Jack Johnson, the colored champion, and knocked out Black Bill in seven rounds.

Joe Bowker, the English featherweight champion, still holds his title, as he defeated Spike Robson, also of London, England, in a hard fifteen-round fight before the National Sporting Club, of England. Robson was no easy proposition, as he rocked the champion time and again with rights and lefts to the jaw. The bout went the limit.

Danny Dougherty, the ex-champion, is doing a hard training stint on the outskirts of Philadelphia for his two coming matches. His first bout will be with Kid Murphy, of New York, before the Eastern Athletic Club, of Baltimore, on November 2, for fifteen rounds. Then he meets Joe Wagner at Allentown, Pa., on November 7.

Mike (Twinn) Sullivan, the Cambridge lightweight who is to meet Joe Gans for twenty rounds before the Hayes Valley Athletic Club, on November 7, has started to train with his brother Jack for the bout. Mike had the better of Gans in a fifteen-round bout a month ago in Baltimore, although it was called a draw, and is confident that he can do the trick again.

RACING.

W. K. Vanderbilt has been elected a director of the National Horse Show Association.

Bon Voyage only won a single race, but is one of the first five money winners of the year.

Zombro, 2-11, won first prize for aged standard-bred stallions at the Portland Ore., fair.

J. W. Plack has sold Hazel Patch, 2-03½, to J. S. Sherman. The price was not made public.

It is announced that Katherine L. 3, 2-12½, will not be raced next season, but will be sent to the stud.

The owners of the Island Park track, Albany, N. Y., are anxious to get into the Grand Circuit next year.

BASEBALL.

The Cincinnati Reds will train at Santa Monica next spring.

Umpire Jack Sheridan says Mathewson has never had an equal as a pitcher. His "fade away" ball and marvelous control are his forte.

Low McAllister, who last spring coached Michigan's baseball team to championship form, says he will go to Ann Arbor again next year. Michigan's prospects for a winning team again are assuring.

President Hart, of the Chicago, only smiled at a Louisville story, saying Capt. A. C. Anson was likely to be manager of the Nationals. "We have two managers now," said Hart, "I don't think we want three."

The National League clubs played fifty-five extra inning games last season, including one of twenty innings, one of sixteen, two of fourteen, six of thirteen, five of twelve, eleven of eleven and twenty-nine of ten.

Clark Griffith denies that he will dispose of Norman Elberfeld to St. Louis, or any other club. He says that he is on good terms with the scrappy little shortstop, who is anxious as can be to play with the Highlanders another season.

The Baltimore Eastern League club cleaned up a wad of real money on its post-season trip through Pennsylvania.

MONTGOMERY FANS
GET EARLY START

Will Have Sure Enough Baseball League.

Teams and Individuals Will Help the Good Cause—Next Meeting on November 28.

Montgomery county, Md., baseball fans are determined to have a league next season of teams in their county and the District, which will be a sure enough league.

They are taking time by the forelock and will perfect their plans this winter so that they will have a good start when the time to play rolls around. The first meeting of those interested in the project was held at the home of Dr. Eugene Jones, at Boyds, on Wednesday evening. It was a sort of informal gathering, but there were more than enough present to assure the success of the enterprise, besides which, support was promised from teams and individuals not present because of the inclement weather.

Meet November 28.

William L. Aud, of Poolesville, was selected chairman of the meeting and V. L. Kefauver, of Wheaton, secretary. After much discussion as to the clubs who will be in the league, it was decided to adjourn for a further meeting at Rockville, November 28, for election of officers.

The following towns were represented: Washington Grove, Kensington, Boyds, Poolesville, and Wheaton. By the time of the next meeting there is likelihood of Rockville, Gaithersburg, and Takoma having their representation.

William L. Aud succeeds A. D. Trundle as manager of the Poolesville team for next year.

WASHINGTON AFTER INTERCITY HONORS

Washington will compete for intercity bowling honors this evening, when the Florists team, of the District League, will go to Baltimore to meet the Florist teams of Baltimore and Philadelphia at the Monarch alleys, 317 West Fayette street, for three games with each team.

This is the beginning for this season of a tournament in which the horticultural experts of the three cities will invade one another's territory and struggle for a handsome silver cup. The excitement this evening the Washington and Quaker flower raisers will be entertained at supper by their Baltimore friends.

Washington's representatives on the alleys tonight will be Cooke, McLennan, Campbell, Shaffer, and Simmons, but a number of rooters will go along to see that they do the right thing. The next match will be in Philadelphia on November 10, when the chrysanthemum show will be in full blast. The date for the match in Washington has not yet been settled upon.

Upsets Are Expected
In Tomorrow's Games

Keen Interest in Football Contests Between Big Teams—Georgetown Goes to Pittsburg While G. W. U. Meets Maryland.

Keen interest is being manifested by followers of intercollegiate football in the contests which will be decided tomorrow.

Late this evening the Georgetown squad of twenty players, accompanied by Manager Hannigan and Coach Reilly, will leave for Pittsburg, where the Blue and Gray meets the strong Washington and Jefferson team tomorrow. The Washington and Jefferson outfit is one of the strongest in that section of the country and as it has a decided advantage over the West Enders in the matter of weight Georgetown expects a hard game.

Practice at Georgetown.

A hard scrimmage was the feature of yesterday's practice at Georgetown Field. After lining up the varsity team, Coach Reilly picked the best scrub team available and worked the first eleven on both the offense and defense.

Greene, a former University of Indiana player, who is in the law school, and Stuart, a member of the varsity crew, were the only new candidates to report. Stuart was played at end on the scrubs, while Greene was put in at tackle, and he made a most favorable impression. Although he was in poor physical condition, he jumped right into the thick of the fray, and it is probable that he will be in the first line-up at Pittsburg.

The probable line-up follows:

George Washington's Game.

The best game on a local gridiron will be played at University Field, where George Washington meets the University of Maryland eleven.

The Buff and Blue was thoroughly dissatisfied with the work of her team last Saturday, with Hopkins, so the work this week has been the hardest since the candidates reported. As a number of likely men have reported, and yesterday afternoon there were about thirty players at the field for the practice.

Coach Barnard gave the two teams a hard scrimmage, after which he reviewed the work that the different players are to do when they have the ball and when they are on the defense.

Gallaudet's game tomorrow will be with the Western Maryland team. The victory over the Navy Yard outfit on Wednesday has encouraged the dummies and they are quite hopeful of a victory over their old-time rivals tomorrow.

Yale vs. West Point.

The West Point game with Yale is the most important of any of the big contests. The Yalensians have been working like Trojans to avoid the defects in the defensive play shown in the trial with Pennsylvania State. It is likely that Hockenberger will replace Edwin at guard. The chances are the Blue line will do better at keeping West Point's line drives, than did Harvard, with the additional preparation Eli has had, but there are fears expressed that Beaver's fast and running may play hob with Yale on account of the weakness of right end, where Cates is far from up to standard. At the Military Academy there is a quiet feeling of confidence and determination that augurs well for the team's success.

There is a bigger chance of an upset in Philadelphia when Penn meets the Indians. The demoralizing effect of Draper's disqualification after the offensive and defensive system was built around his great ability can only be appreciated by those in close touch with the team's work. The successive loss of five of the Quakers' best men makes the chance of any success for the Red and Blue extremely unlikely in any of the big games.

Indians Are Strong.

The Carlisle Indians have made a great showing this year. They have scored the highest total of points of any team in the East and have met fairly strong competitors. They made a better showing against Penn State than did Yale. The team is in perfect physical condition, appears able to gain ground and to defend equally well, and is fairly strong in kicking.

Nothing is expected of the game at Cambridge between Harvard and Brown, despite the Crimson's supposed worryment. There is more chance of something interesting developing at Annapolis, where the strong Swarthmore team plays the Navy. The success of their place against this team they have had for three years.

Judging by the showings made thus far this season Princeton should be able to defeat Columbia at New York, although the latter team is quite hopeful of crossing the Tigers' goal line.
